“ I would like to share something about Ray:
I always cherished the conversations that we shared, though sometimes our visits lasted only a few minutes. I enjoyed seeing him driving up the road after a trip to town. He would leisurely drive at about the speed that would cause a walking, healthy man to slow down, if he wished keep pace. His window would be down, smoke from his pipe would be slowly exiting his vehicle, and the world would seem to slow down to accommodate him. Worldly concerns seem to evaporate at his appearance.
During one of our humorous conversations, he spoke about an event that transpired prior to that date. He had ordered a fairly inexpensive part for his riding lawnmower. The part had been ordered from another town, whose name I cannot recall, but the part that arrived was the wrong part. He called the business to discuss the issue. A nice lady on the other end of the phone was able to verify the mistake and properly identify the proper part. Upon Ray asking if the part could be mailed to him, the lady asked where he lived. After stating that he lived outside of Clintwood, the lady said that Clintwood was only an hour or so away. Ray, in his usual voice said, ‘Well, I’d like to come back’. :-)
I’m going to miss our conversations.

“ I am very saddened at Ray's death. I always made a point to visit with him when I was able to visit VA. Ray was a special person and I held a special place in my heart for him. He had a kind heart and a gentle nature. We always told each jokes when we spoke or got together. The past couple of years we would laugh until he had to have a breathing treatment. I will sorely miss him, and the country that he dearly served will miss his honor.

“ Cousin Ray, God bless you. Never knew a kinder, nicer, and better person. Will always be happy for the friendship we shared all of my life. I want to say I appreciate your kindness to me, our broader Mullins family, and our common friends. Thank you once again for your service to the Country in the US Army in WWII I'll always remember your attempts to enlist in the Army when you were under age just showed what a true Patriot you really are. Guess it runs in the family past, present, and future. Keep smiling I always loved your happy smile every time we met. Until we meet again Cousin. Godspeed. Jerry L. Mullins of Crabtree Hollow.
