“ It has taken me this long just to be able to write and actually see the phone through the tears. This woman! WOW! I'll try to make this brief...Liz was Momma #2 to me. I spent more time with her than I did my own mother; as Goldena, her eldest daughter, was my very best friend, my other half, my sister by another mister. We were completely inseparable for much of our younger years. We would sit at the kitchen table and make the strongest cups of Lipton Instant Iced tea; when you finished there would be a half inch to an inch of tea mix still in the bottom of the cup. Momma Liz would laugh as she made us eat the remaining mixture with a spoon. LOL

Momma Liz had a very hard life, but she ALWAYS kept going. No matter what life threw at her, she embraced it. She gave love unconditionally and never gave up on anyone that was having a rough patch in life. She sits now with Dena as they look down on Cole and all of the children, grandbabies, and great grandbabies; both of them praying that the ones left here on earth NEVER see or go through painful and unthinkable days like those that we three endured every evening in that little white house, down by South's store. Liz was a survivor, a warrior that protected her loved ones; especially her young. She was always one step ahead of evil and will FOREVER be my WONDER WOMAN!

I MISS YOU MOMMA LIZ!

Kids, if u ever want to talk or have any questions about your Mommy or your Mamaw, I'm here! I love all my Lil Dena's!!!
