“ I've always had a soft heart for my brother Gary because he had a very hard and troubled life, especially when he was growing up. Gary had a natural ability for mechanics and taught himself how to be an automobile mechanic and enjoyed restoring his old, vintage car. He got that car looking so spiffy that he could have entered it into a vintage car show. I admire him for being able to do that.

When he was a teenager, Gary had a temperamental pony named Lightning that would not let anyone ride him but Gary. He would often ride Lightning up into the forests for hours at a time, enjoying alone time and nature. I feel at peace knowing that Gary isn't suffering from anything anymore and is okay now. Love you Gary.
Linda.
