

Jason Elbert McCowan

February 28, 1979 - March 18, 2012

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

C_

“"The coolest kid! This warms my heart. Paul showed me this video when he visited me in 2011. I was in complete awe the whole time - the message, his talent, and how well put-together the video was. Rest easy."

---

c_udora@yahoo.co.uk - June 24, 2014 at 04:02 PM

KM

“"My darling Jay! You are at peace now and I am trying to find my peace knowing that one day we will all stand together. You are no longer in pain or confused. God told me that you had suffered since you were a child and almost burned to death. That was a tragedy, and the suffering and medications needed to survive that pain was not by your choice. You were a child. On the night you left us God told me that "This Childs has suffered enough!" Jason was healed by the grace of God and by his death. I praise God for his love of Jason and share my thoughts to give comfort to any that can find my truth as real. I remember the day I first held Jason in my arms and he stole my heart and held it from that day forward. RIP my sweet, loving Nephew. We will all be together soon as God wills it!"

---

Kathy McCowan - February 04, 2012 at 12:02 PM