

Kionna Ryan Milgrim

April 23, 2026 - April 23, 2026

☐Kionna Ryan Milgrim☐

Born still on April 23rd, 2026.

Our beautiful baby girl, Kionna, entered her eternal rest at 29 weeks of gestation. She came into this world sleeping at 10:45 AM. She weighs 2lbs and 11oz. She is 16 inches long, our tall little girl. I was induced from Wednesday night to Thursday morning to have our daughter. I was dilating and contracting quickly on Thursday morning; the labor was progressing too quickly to have received an epidural. Jordan, her sweet and devoted daddy, never left my side, not once. I needed him so badly, and I need him even more than ever now. Our baby girl. I just want her back, I need her, I need her with me now. It's just not fair. She is the embodiment of perfection. She has the most beautiful little face and the softest little hands. She came into this world with a head full of dark curly hair. She has the longest legs and the biggest feet I've ever seen on a little girl; she was going to be taller than her daddy; I just know it. We miss our baby girl, our little Kionna, our daughter; we need her so badly. I just don't know how I will ever be okay again. I just want to hold her again and kiss her face. No one can tell me that this happened for a reason or that God has better plans, because I need my daughter. Jordan needs her; she is our baby. There will always be a big hole in our hearts because no parent ever deserves to lose their child. This pain is absolutely unbearable. We miss our little girl so bad. Please just pray for us. For strength and comfort, not that we will ever be okay with what happened to us. We just need prayers. I will never ever have the right words to describe what has happened to us. There's just no right way to say it; she's our little baby. Jordan and I didn't experience a miscarriage; our daughter Kionna passed away. We weren't ready to let her go, and we never will be. Our hearts will forever ache. We love you, sweet Kionna, today, tomorrow, and forever and always ☐

“ I don't know you, but my heart and prayers go out to you. I have been through this twice. My babies went to Heaven several years ago. I grieve for them every day. I have two daughters now, and I also have a son. I think about my two precious babies everyday. I thank God for my children I have now. Prayers

“ While there are no words to make your loss any less than devastating, I am sorry for your loss. May God give you peace as only he can. I lit a purple candle because your daughter is now royalty in heaven where no disease can dim her light and she will forever be young and healthy 💜
