"She was the first spark of fire. the first color to form a sunset, the warm feeling in your belly on Christmas morning. she was the person that always aided everyone, before herself. she was love, and light even after overcoming so much.

she was the grass you feel under your feet outside that made you connected to the earth, and the feeling of rain on a hot June day. she made you feel at home, no matter where you may have been.

she was truly one of the most caring, loving, unbiased person that this world was graced to see, and she will be dearly missed."
